Insurance Terms Explained

We know insurance can seem like a language all its own. Here's a breakdown of the terms you need to know most.

Deductible: the amount you pay for covered healthcare services (other than your included, no-cost benefits) before your plan starts to pay

Copayment: a fixed amount ($20, for example) you pay for a covered healthcare service

Coinsurance: the cost percentage of a covered healthcare service you pay (20%, for example) after you've paid your deductible

MOOP: stands for maximum out of pocket, and it's the most you have to pay for covered services in a plan year—after you spend this amount on deductibles, copayments, and coinsurance for in-network care and services, your health plan pays 100% of the costs of covered benefits

Preventive: care and services to prevent illness. Includes routine check-ups, immunizations, patient counseling, and screenings

Formulary tiers: the levels that specific drugs fall into under Bright Formulary (covered) Drugs—each Tier has a related copay that applies to all the drugs in that level

Plan selection basics

Possibly the most challenging part of buying healthcare coverage is deciding which plan is best for you. Two main things to consider when making the choice:

- How often do you expect to use your plan?
- How much predictability would you like in your healthcare budget?

Gold Plans

Generous coverage and predictable costs

Best for: People who expect to use their coverage often: ongoing prescriptions, frequent provider visits, etc. Most benefits have copays, so costs are more predictable.

Silver Plans

Moderate premiums and costs

Best for: Those who expect to use their plans occasionally, and would like lower deductibles and more benefits than a Bronze plan.

Bronze Plans

Lower premiums and higher costs with use

Best for: Healthy individuals who want to minimize their monthly premiums and are comfortable with the risk of a higher deductible in the event of a high-cost health incident.

Catastrophic Plans

Lowest premiums

Best for: Those under age 30 who desire low premiums and expect minimal medical incidents. Coverage includes 3 primary care visits, then no other benefits until the maximum out-of-pocket (MOOP) is reached.

ICHRA

All our plans are fully compatible with ICHRA

Best for: Individual Coverage Health Reimbursement Arrangement (ICHRA) funds from an employer can make a more generous plan fit your needs. Silver plans with $0 deductible or $0 primary care are just two examples.

How much will it cost?

At the end of the day, we know this is the bottom line for most people looking for a health plan. Here are some options for significant savings.

Ways to save

As you might know, the first “A” in ACA stands for affordable. The purpose of the ACA (Affordable Care Act) was to make healthcare accessible to all Americans. Through “Marketplaces” (like HealthCare.gov) individuals and families can shop for and buy health insurance plans using two types of subsidies to make them more affordable. In order to take advantage of these discounts, coverage must be purchased through a Marketplace. This can be done directly on BrightHealthPlan.com or you can talk with your broker for more information.

Advanced Premium Tax Credits (APTC)

These are tax credits that can be used to lower monthly premium payments. They apply to our Bronze, Silver, and Gold plans.

APTC member story: Bill

Bill is a single, 40 year-old male earning $13,000 a year as a food-delivery driver. On the exchange, Bill learned he was eligible for around $450 a month in subsidies. This meant he could get a $0 premium Bronze plan. Bill was also eligible for a Silver plan with a lower deductible and modest premium, but because he rarely uses his health plan, he went with the $0 Bronze plan.

Cost Sharing Reductions (CSRs)

CSRs are an additional discount on top of any APTC you may qualify for. CSRs lower the deductible, copayments, and coinsurance you pay if you enroll in a Silver plan. These plans may have a higher premium, but the overall cost of healthcare is often lower after the discounts.

CSR member story: Inéz

Inéz is a married 31 year-old who earns $22,000 annually in her new wedding-planning business. Inéz wants the greater predictability that comes with more robust coverage. Through the Marketplace, Inéz qualified for a low-deductible Silver plan. She knows her maximum out-of-pocket costs will be affordable, and that routine visits to her PCP will be $5.

Expanding your choices with ICHRA

ICHRA stands for Individual Coverage Health Reimbursement Arrangement. Simply put, it's a way for companies to reimburse employees for health insurance they choose themselves—instead of the company choosing and buying coverage for them.

One more important thing to keep in mind: employees with an ICHRA are ineligible for APTC unless the ICHRA offered by their employer is deemed unaffordable. Then, the employee must select either APTC or use their ICHRA.

ICHRA member story: Mary

Mary receives $400 each month from her employer toward the purchase of a Qualified Health Plan (QHP). Because Mary is taking advantage of her employer's ICHRA offering, she is not eligible for any tax credits. However, she is a perfect candidate for one of Bright Health's off-exchange, ICHRA-friendly Silver plans. Mary's plan even has a $0 deductible! She's getting coverage with great benefits, and has the added satisfaction of knowing she is in charge of her healthcare coverage choices.

Networks work!

What is a network?

It's a group of providers and facilities Bright Health has partnered with to offer affordable, quality care. Here are some things to think about as you are making a plan choice:

- Have a doctor you love and trust? Before you choose a plan, check to see if they are in-network.
- If they are not, are you willing to see someone different?
- Are you interested in Telehealth? Online visits can be a great option for non-serious illnesses and injuries.

Why does the network matter?

In a word, cost. Our plans cover charges from in-network providers only, except in emergencies and other rare, pre-approved situations. Because of this, you may end up paying the entire cost for services you receive outside the network.

Learn more from Mary about why it's best to stay in-network

Mary visited her Primary Care Provider (PCP) and was diagnosed with a urinary tract infection. Her PCP prescribed an antibiotic and encouraged her to return if her symptoms didn't improve within a few days. Because Mary's health plan has $0 copay Primary Care visits and $0 Tier One generic drug copays, Mary had no out-of-pocket costs. She can now focus on feeling better—instead of on how she's going to pay her bill. Check out the chart to see estimates of how much Mary's visit would have cost her elsewhere.

PCP visit:
$0

In-network Urgent Care:
$50

In-network ER:
$1,257

Out-of-network ER:
$4,010

As you can see, Mary saved big by staying in network—and getting the right level of care!
